STREET HOLDS BALL DROPPED 500 FEET

Catches Sphere Thrown from Top of Monument

ON THE FOURTEENTH TRIAL

After Failing to Gauge Several Balls Rolled from Chute, Plucky Backstop Gets Leather Squarely in His Migt and Holds on to It. Never Before Accomplished, Charley Street, of the Washington ball & club, yesterday accomplished the unprecedented and supposedly impossible feat of catching a ball dropped from the top of the Washington Monument.

The first day Street saw the memorial shaft he determined to make the catch law prohibiting dropping missiles from the windows, 500 feet from the ground. he decided to give up the idea, but yesterday his opportunity came, and he accepted the chance without any hesitancy. TWO DIVISIONS ARE ARRANGED When John Biddle, a member of the local Metropolitan Club, heard that Street was anxious to make a trial, he made a Four Older League Winners Will bet with Preston Gibson, a fellow-clubmate, that Street could make good, and, after obtaining a permit from Col. Bromwell, superintendent of public buildings and grounds, the two went to the bal grounds yesterday morning and sought out Street.

The two clubmen and the catcher, ac companied by Capt. Bob Gapley and George McBride, went to the Monument in an automobile. They took five slightly discolored balls with them, and had to roll the balls from the windows.
